REAR END COLLISION.

Slight Accident in Which Freight Car and Caboose Are Damaged.

Friday morning the 940 passenger train out of this city over the Central Vermont railroad ran into the rear end of extra freight No. 1237 a short distance east of the South Coventry station. A freight car and a caboose were badly smashed up and the pilot on the engine of the passenger train was also smashed up. The freight car was crushed and the caboose was crushed. The extra freight had fifteen minutes ahead of the passenger train but before reaching South Coventry lost time because the engine did not start properly. The attempt was made to take the siding to permit the passenger train to pass. The rear end brakeman got out of the caboose and tried to flag the approaching passenger train. There is a curve in the road at this point, but it appeared as though the engineer of the passenger train could have got a view of the freight train ahead in ample time to have stopped his train and avoided the smashup. Borough People on Vacation Outings—Local Interest in Commander Cornwall's Bet—Court Cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Reed of Boston are visiting Mr. Reed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Reed of the west side.
Earl F. Winslow, clerk in the post office, is on a vacation.
The papers are giving much space to accounts of a wager between Commander Frank E. Cornwall, Connecticut naval reserves, retired, formerly a resident of Danielson, and Commander Ebenezer Hill, Jr., Connecticut naval reserves, formerly major in the ordnance department, C. S. G., and well known among local military men.
About three months ago, shortly after Major Hill's wife had divorced him, he was talking with Commander Cornwall, and said: "Frank, you are a confirmed bachelor, and you are bet that I will be married before you." "It's a safe bet you won't. I'll bet you out and cover any bet you make," replied Cornwall.
The bet was made and a few days later Commander Cornwall went to visit at the home of Mrs. Marcia Beach at Woodmont. Mrs. Beach has recently divorced Edward W. Beach, president of the Manufacturers' Foundry company. While there, Commander Cornwall was taken violently ill with typhoid fever. That was eleven weeks ago, and more than once all hope for his recovery was abandoned. During his illness, he thought of the bet with Hill. Once when he believed with the doctors that death was only a matter of a few hours, he said: "Eh has won the bet, but I'm no weaker. I'll have him paid. About a week ago he remarked: 'Eh will win the bet yet. I must overcome a big handicap.'"

Closing Work of the Institute.
Friday ended up the four days' instruction of the institute and there were general expressions of a good feeling by those who attended.
The lesson immediately after the chapel service was taught as usual by Dr. Gale, who showed very clearly the distinction between faith and trust. Faith receives God's gift of salvation, while trust commits to God soul, body and spirit for his eternal keeping.
Dr. Morgan closed his work in "The Palm" and briefly related a wonderful spiritual experience he had many years ago on a cot in a hospital at Toronto, which was the occasion of physical healing and quickened spiritual life.

Mr. Clec emphasized in his final lecture on "Boys" the need of various forms of activity along physical, educational, mental and social lines.
Misses MacIntyre and Driscoll included their excellent instructions on "Social Service" and "Junior Methods," which have been full of valuable hints for practical work.

Altogether, the institute has served to quicken intelligent appreciation along lines of Christian service.

Consecration Meeting.
The final service of all held Tuesday afternoon, was largely attended, being thrown open to the public. Dr. Gale had charge. It was a very impressive service all through. Scripture was read by Rev.
